

LEADERS ATTEND STRATTON OUTING AT FOX LAKE CLUB

Announcements of Candidacy Next Spring Were Mailed

Leading Republicans from Northern Illinois and other friends of William J. Stratton, former secretary of state, numbered several hundred at the annual Stratton outing held at the Fox Lake Golf and Country Club last Saturday afternoon and evening. Announcement of Stratton's candidacy for state treasurer next spring, was made the same week-end.

Lake County officials and a number of notables from Cook county were among the gathering which attended this third Stratton Day. Several well-known Democrats were also present for the day.

A golf tourney was played in the afternoon with 200 entrants taking part. In the evening, dinner was served at the country club. Contrary to expectations, politics were not discussed at the table.

Letters mailed
Letters announcing his candidacy for state treasurer in the spring were sent by Stratton to precinct committeemen and executives of the Lake County Republican Central Committee.

The letter sent out by Stratton, read in part as follows:
To the members of the Lake County Republican Central Committee:

Permit me to express my sincere appreciation for the very kind sentiment contained in your request that I stand as a candidate for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer of the State of Illinois.

Will Be Candidate
I realize that to comply with your request means a great amount of work and a very arduous campaign. However, because the members of your committee have so unselfishly supported me in the past, I shall yield to your judgment, (rather than follow a course that would be purely of personal interest to me); and I hereby announce that I shall be a candidate in the republican primary next April for the nomination for State Treasurer.

As a candidate, I pledge you and the people of Illinois that, when elected, I shall give to the administration of the office of State Treasurer the same painstaking effort I gave as Secretary of State. In 1928, as a candidate for Secretary of State, I pledged that all public funds received by me, while under my control, would be deposited in responsible banking institutions of the state and all interest earned on such funds would be publicly accounted for and would accrue strictly to the benefit and profit of the state treasury. That pledge was faithfully carried out.

Grade School Board Makes 1933 Levy Same as Last Year

The tax levy for Antioch Grade School, district No. 34, will remain the same for 1933 as it was for 1932, with the amount set at $22,783, Arthur Hawkins, secretary of the Board states following a recent meeting of the body.

This sum includes the amounts which are allowed by the board for educational and building purposes, including interest and payments on bonds. Of the amount, $17,720 is set aside for educational purposes, with $5,063 set as the building allotment.

Plans to change the music room in the old building into a class room and transfer the music room to the classroom on the second floor, have been made by the board and will be carried into effect before school opens.

Jensen Files Suit for $50,000 Damages; Employs Assistant

Dr. G. W. Jensen filed suit Wednesday for $50,000 in Lake County Circuit court against Edward McCarthy, Chicago advertising man, who collided with the veterinarian in an accident last May. McCarthy, alleged to have been driving more than seventy miles an hour, will be brought to trial Monday on charges of reckless driving. The accident occurred near Round Lake.

Sam Elmer, a veterinary student at the University of Ohio, who will assist Dr. G. W. Jensen in his work, arrived last Sunday to assume his new duties. The new assistant is staying for the present, at the Jensen home. Dr. Jensen was seriously injured in the Round Lake smash-up, but has sufficiently recovered to resume his work.

MONGOVEN AND OTHER "MORAN MEN" HELD BY COUNTY POLICE

Three Taken at Bluff Lake; 137 Slot Machines Are Confiscated

Lee Mongoven and two other henchmen of the "Bugs" Moran gang, were arrested in raids made last week-end in the county, during which 137 slot machines, with a reported value of $15,180, were seized by Deputy Sheriff Jack Daly.

Mongoven, Morris Cohn, alias Corn of Indian Point, Fox Lake, and Alfred Achampault of Channahon, were arrested at the Cassidy Resort at Bluff Lake, believed the headquarters of Moran and his henchmen. Sixty slot machines were seized at the time of the arrest.

Previous to these arrests and seizures, a truck load of 88 machines going through Libertyville, said by the drivers to have been picked up at Bluff Lake, were taken by Daly, Lawrence Hoffman and William Higgins, of Waukegan, who were transporting the slot machines, said there were more at Bluff Lake, when they were questioned. Warrants were then prepared for a raid and the arrest of Mongoven.

Implicates Hentges
Archambault, who, according to State's Attorney Mason, was "very frank," admitted being in the slot machine racket and said he worked for Supervisor Dan Hentges of Lake Forest. Hentges later denied ever hearing of Archambault and denied owning any slot machines. Archambault's word was not sufficient to can for a questioning of Hentges, according to Mason.

The Fox Lake man also stated that he had lived in Lake County for two years.

Mongoven, generally reputed to be the first lieutenant of Moran, stated that a higher up owned most of the machines, but that all of his money was tied up in them. He also said he would leave the county, because it is "too small" for him.

Will Require Court Order
Mongoven will be required to show a court order before he can regain possession of the machines according to the state's attorney, who also declared that the charge of possessing them will be taken into court.

Mongoven, explaining his naive declaration that he was "shopping for slot machines" when he was picked up by Chicago police two weeks ago, said he had a receipt for the machines in his pockets at the time he was arrested.

A hunt is said to have started for Moran who, it is reported, has been out of the state for two weeks. Bail of $2,000 was posted by all of the defendants before Justice Hoyt, and according to present plans, the case will be held sometime this week or the early part of next.

Six of the slot machines picked up in the raids were stolen property, according to Mason.

ARREST TWO IN RAID ON LAKE COTTAGE

Further arrests were made at Channahon Lake last Saturday morning in a joint raid staged by State's Attorney Charles E. Mason and Sheriff Lester T. Tiffany, when Charles Ansona and Harry Minor, both of Chicago, were picked up as possible figures in county robberies. The men are being held until victims of the robberies can view them.

Miss Mary Osmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Osmond, spent last week in Chicago visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kurth and attending the Century of Progress.

Farmers Will Meet at School, August 17, for Wheat Sign-Up

George White Is Named to Serve on Wheat Com- mittee

Farmers in this locality will be given an opportunity to sign an application for wheat allotment contracts at Antioch Township High School, Thursday, August 17, at 8:30 o'clock. DST, H. C. Glickerson, county farm adviser announces.

Farmers, received from Washington, for signing-up in the wheat production control campaign of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, will be distributed for the first time at the series of meetings to be held throughout Lake County next week.

Information which will be required in the application, includes a record of the farmer's wheat acreage and his total production for each of the three years, 1930, 1931, and 1932. As a general rule, each farmer's allotment will be 84 per cent of his average production during those three years, which is estimated to be the portion of the crop which goes into domestic consumption.

As compensation for making that acreage adjustment, the wheat grower gets benefit payments of approximately 28 cents on each bushel of his allotment. Twenty cents of that will be paid soon after September 15 and the remainder next spring after the contract has been filled.

Other meetings scheduled for next week are: Rosecrans, Monday; Ivanhoe, Tuesday; Gurnee, Wednesday; Wauconda, Friday; Half Day, Monday, August 21; Lake Zurich, Tuesday, August 22; and Grayslake, August 23.

C. J. Wright of Grayslake has been named chairman of the county wheat committee, temporarily, according to word received by H. C. Glickerson, Lake County farm adviser, from the Agricultural Adjustment Association in Washington.

George White, Antioch, Robert Olson, Rosecrans, C. C. Shanks, Grayslake, C. A. Faulkner, Gurnee, W. E. Brooks, Wauconda, Lee Hudson, Mundelein, Elmer Heldman, Lake Zurich, and A. J. Stahl, Prairie View, will serve temporarily with Mr. Wright on the county committee.

A meeting of the group was held Tuesday night with D. E. Lindstrom, assistant state manager, to secure details of the plan and arrange for a series of meetings to be held throughout the county. R. B. Hindeken is acting state manager of the adjustment organization.

For Sale Ad in News Gives 24 Hour Service at Cost of 25 Cents

For those doubling Thomases who question that classified advertising in THE ANTIOCH NEWS "pays," fresh proof against their doubts was given recently by Mrs. Frank King who had 24-hour service on a For Sale ad run in this paper.

Mrs. King advertised a congoletum rug, and made her sale the next day, which cost a total of 25 cents for the one ad. Many homes have used articles of furniture, used tools, machinery, clothing or services which could be sold or exchanged to good advantage instead of being left to accumulate dust and occupy storage space.

One quarter, which is small money when you get ready to attend a show, eat a meal, or buy the family groceries, will spread the news of what you have to sell over a wide area to several thousand readers in nearly 1,500 homes.

A premium list totaling $1,600, for the tenth annual exhibition of the Antioch Country Fair to be held at Antioch Township High School, Oct. 5, 6, and 7, is being mailed out this week by the officers of the Fair Association. Premiums totaling $1,600 were offered at last year's fair.

Corn Grown in County

Revision of the poultry entries to allow for higher and more premiums for popular breeds of poultry are the most outstanding change in this year's list. As many as six prizes are offered for some popular breeds in both single and trio classifications, and first prizes range from $1.50 to 75 cents, but in most cases are set at $1.25. The highest premium offered last year for single birds in the poultry class was $1.00. All poultry entries must be made by Oct. 1.

In the agricultural products class, it is specified that only corn grown in Lake and adjoining counties may be exhibited. Entries allowed in this class will be much the same as last year.

In the vegetable class this year, quackmellen may be entered under two classifications, that of pink flesh and green flesh, with premiums offered in each division. Entries in the fruit class have been cut this year to 32. Last year, premiums were offered for 36 divisions.

Fifty-six divisions are listed under which cut flowers and potted plants may be entered for judging this year. Under the pantry stores classification, few changes have been made except that honey is listed in this class, with premiums offered for four types of exhibits.

Add to Fine Arts
A division open to high school students is added this year to the Fine Arts Class. Commercial Art, mechanical drawings and oil paintings may be entered by students under this new classification.

Educational and vocational agriculture divisions are listed much the same as in last year's catalogue in the new premium list.

CONSOLIDATION OF RURAL ROUTES TO BE EFFECTIVE SEPT. 1

Absorption of One Division by Other Two Causes No Patronage Loss

Consolidation of the three Antioch rural routes in a north and south route will become effective Sept. 1, according to an order received by Miss Lottie Jones, local postmistress, from the United States postoffice department.

No loss of rural patronage is entailed in the change, Miss Jones states, explaining that the new routing follows plans which she submitted to the assistant postmaster general several months ago.

Leads to Grass Lake
The south route, rural route No. 1, will lead to Grass Lake, Indian Point, Loon Lake, Hickory Corners and back to the office. The turn will be made at the "Palace" corner for Loon Lake. Returning the route will turn at Webb's Corner, past George White's, then north at Turner's corner, and west past Pierce's. All these localities except Loon Lake are included in the present Route 1. Loon Lake is now served by the present Route 2. The South Route, to be established Sept. 1, will have Lester Osmond as carrier.

The new north route will serve Channahon Lake, and Lake Catherine, Cross Lake, east nearly to the Wadsworth road, and back to Antioch on Highway 173. This territory is now included in Route 3. Arthur Trieger will be carrier on this route.

Absorb Route 2
Route 2, which is to be absorbed in the new north and south routes, as mapped out now, lies entirely east of Antioch, and has been served by Homer Winch, who tendered his resignation several months ago. In line with the present national postoffice policy of making no replacement unless absolutely necessary, the route on which he was formerly employed, has now been absorbed.

Considerable agitation was aroused late last spring when a possibility was reported that some of the Antioch rural patronage would go to Lake Villa in the consolidation. Miss Jones expressed satisfaction with the arrangement which will become effective in September.

REMEMBER AN OLD TRUTH

There is a rather curious attitude abroad now in the kingdom of politics. Members of the political courts admit that the trend of legislation in all forms of government is toward higher taxes—but insist that these additional costs will be taken care of by new sources of revenue.

The potential tax on liquor is a good example of this. At this writing 20 states have ratified repeal, and none have turned it down. And at Washington and in two score state capitals, public men chirp gleefully to the effect that a liquor tax will produce millions in revenue, and make possible more bond issues, more governmental ventures into strange and attractive realms.

Apparently no one in public office has taken the trouble to point out that there is only so much money in the country. It can buy only so much—it can pay only so much in taxes. A new tax, whether on liquor or on anything else, doesn't create more national income. It simply takes its money from a different place—which leaves less money in another place.

Tax juggling has been the curse of modern governmental economy. It's the old dodge of spending out of the citizen's right-hand pocket instead of his left. For ten years we have listened to speeches of tax reduction and have permitted the national expense account to soar. And it's time we remembered a fact of the utmost simplicity—the only way lower taxes can be had is for government to spend less money.

THE MOTORISTS WHO TAKE CHANCES

You see them on streets and highways every day—motorists who take chances.

You see them turning corners at high speeds. Or stealing another car's right of way. Or passing on hills and curves. Or driving on the wrong side of the road. Or cutting in and out of thick traffic. Or coming roaring into intersections and road junctions without looking to either side. Or operating at speeds which are obviously higher than are safe under driving conditions of the moment. And, every once in a while, you see such a motorist cause an accident. Perhaps there is little damage done. Or perhaps a life is lost and valuable property is needlessly destroyed.

The reckless motorist comprises ten per cent or less of the driving population. But he causes ninety per cent of the accidents. If the reckless drivers simply injured each other it wouldn't be particularly important to the rest of us. But they seldom do that—they maim and kill the careful, the competent, the prudent. And you never know who's going to be next.

This year about thirty thousand people are going to be killed because someone was careless, reckless, discourteous. Not one of a thousand death is really due to an unavoidable accident—an occurrence which is almost as rare as the dodo. They can all be prevented. And they will be when there is a concerted public drive against those who make places of carnage out of public highways.

ERECTION OF WATER TOWER

With two public projects of great interest dependent on the issue, Antioch may await with more than ordinary interest the distribution of National Industrial Recovery funds in the state for municipal improvements.

Erection of a larger water tower in place of the reservoir in present use, and installation of sanitary and storm sewerage on Spafford and Harden Sts., are public works which will meet with the approval of all but a few.

However, the water tower, since it will have a direct influence on the entire population, offers the greatest advantages. While the erection of a water tower at the present time, is not a necessity, neither will it be an extravagant gesture. With its capacity of 40,000 gallons, the present tower falls far short on a "busy" day, of filling the water requirements of Antioch water consumers, and although there has never been a shortage, a day in which the pumps are out of order, would work an actual hardship in Antioch homes.

Aside from insuring an always sufficient water supply, the larger reservoir through increased pressure would give better fire protection in town. It would also give better pressure to those consumers along Main Street who complain of "air bubbles" in the water.

By many members of the Village Board, as well as townsmen, the erection of a new tank is believed to be an investment in safety for it is predicted that the old tower which is settling more on one side than the other, may someday topple over. However, that event is very much of a future problem. And then there's the matter of paint, which is needed both inside and out.

But the most interesting phase of the erection of this tower, providing that national funds are secured, is the financial self sufficiency of the water department. With more than $5,000 on reserve in that department, and 30 per cent of the cost of construction coming as a gift from the government, the project will be practically self-supporting, which is unusual to the point of being sensational.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Spirit" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 6, 1933.

The Golden Text was, "Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God; thy spirit is good" (Psalms 143:10). Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit; for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God" (1 Cor. 2:9, 10).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The only excuse for entertaining human opinions and rejecting the Science of being is our mortal ignorance of Spirit,—ignorance which yields only to the understanding of divine Science, the understanding by which we enter into the kingdom of Truth on earth and learn that Spirit is infinite and supreme" (p. 280).

Our Patriotic and Economic Duty

TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S PLAN

As We See It

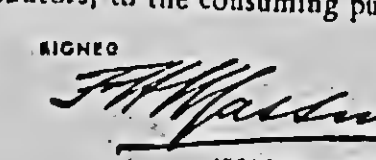

NATIONAL TEA CO.

THE food and grocery distributors, because of the many conditions within the trade, one of which is the handling of large quantities of perishable farm products, were given a Code by the Administrator containing 48 hours as maximum working hours of employment.

The purpose of the National Industrial Recovery Act is to employ people at a living wage which automatically brings about greater purchasing power so that producers, mills, factories and commercial organizations will have more business as a result of this added employment and increased purchasing power.

Grocery store hours during normal times have averaged 72 hours weekly, and to reduce these hours to any great extent and bring them closer to maximum labor hours would defeat plans and aims the N. R. A. wishes to accomplish. It, therefore, becomes the economic and patriotic duty of grocery stores to remain open reasonable hours per week so that added employment becomes necessary.

Our own thought on grocery store hours is as follows: MONDAY to FRIDAY 8:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M., and SATURDAY 8:00 A. M. to 9:00 P. M., which is a total of 63 hours per week, which is most reasonable and practical in grocery stores and which will aid in the accomplishments desired in the N. R. A. National Tea Co. offers these practical thoughts to offset some misunderstandings which seem to exist on grocery store hours. Those who advocate the adoption of grocery store hours totaling not less than 63 hours per week will perform a patriotic duty to the President as well as their economic duty, as distributors, to the consuming public.

Public Seeks Books for Help in Work, Pleasure, and Search of Education

Books which are going into circulation to fill the increased leisure time of today, are classified by the Illinois Library Association as literature which gives help in getting or holding a job, which offers recreation costing nothing and serving as an antidote for loneliness and brooding, and which aids in the pursuit of an education without any cost.

A striking demand for books on business, vacations and occupations is reported by the association. OVERCOMING CHILD'S FEAR OF THE DENTIST

Most modern parents realize the importance of frequent dental examinations, but unfortunately not all modern children do. At least some of them have objections to visiting the dentist.

In past years there may have been some reason for this fear, but today with the development of comparatively painless dentistry, the child need have no fear, particularly if he goes frequently enough so that no serious trouble has a chance to get under way.

The child's fear of the dentist usually has no foundation in any actual experience of his own, nor does he come into the world with an instinctive fear of dental treatment. Therefore, the only way this fear can be implanted in his mind, is by hearing others talk about painful experiences, either real or imagined, or by hearing such careless phrases as "It was as bad as going to the dentist."

It is most unwise to play upon the child's dislike of dentistry even as a means of urging him to take care of his teeth. For instance, don't say "If you don't brush your teeth you'll have to go to the dentist."

Early Treatment Saves Future Pain.

You, as parents, can try to keep your child from repeating before the child experiences the dentist chair. Also, emphasize to the child that good teeth mean good looks as well as good health, and that by going to the dentist regularly every six months, his teeth will be kept in such good condition that painful treatment will never be necessary, whereas, if he puts it off some serious trouble may develop.

Of course there are differences in dentists. Select as considerable a dentist as you possibly can for your child.

Do all you can to prevent and overcome your child's fears. If you are unsuccessful, take him to the dentist anyway and have his teeth attended to. To delay is not a kindness but a cruelty. Teeth neglected in childhood will no doubt give real cause for fear later in life.

This is one of a series of articles on "How to Have Attractive Teeth" released in cooperation with and approved by the public service committee of the Chicago Dental Society.

COSTS LESS NOW TO GROW CHICKS

The saving that is possible in feeding chicks during the first six weeks of their life is most clearly shown by recent tabulations. Where formerly ingredients were mixed together to form a certain per cent of protein, modern research proves that such mixing may prove costly to the owner.

From a series of records involving the weighing of thousands of chicks from one day out of the shell to six weeks of age, accurate computation is now available on what to expect in the way of returns from every dollar expended in feed. Research data of Purina Mills Experiment Farm yield the interesting chart here reproduced. Three groups of chicks tested on three separate mashers, all having the same values according to old methods of analysis, but differing in the manner in which the ingredients were proportioned, show a wide range of costs. Group X, with the best scientific proportioning, is within a few cents of being worth double the old style ration represented by Group Z. Group Y was mixed according to some of the better practices of feeders. Group X was mixed according to the exclusive data developed by the Research Division of Purina Mills, the result of years of analytical, biological and practical farm tests.

The difference between paying a feed cost of forty cents for ten pounds of chick growth and paying seventy-one cents is obviously so great that no poultry raiser can afford not to take warning. He should examine carefully his methods and his cost sheets. The feed consumed as against the weight developed by the chicks in a given period of time will soon tell him where his profits have gone.

Let Diet Aid Dentistry

By Marie H. Callahan, Editor
Modern Beauty Shop Magazine

Just because milk, fruits and vegetables don't come wrapped up in fancy tubes or jars accompanied by folders promising elaborate results from their use, we are not to forget that they are as important in keeping teeth sparkling and white as are the tooth pastes which are so alluringly advertised, for it is not enough to treat the outside of our teeth; we must also pay attention to the inside—that is, we must eat the foods that will supply the materials for building beautiful teeth.

In this business of being beautiful we all have a tendency to "let it go," especially when we are young and can be attractive without much effort. We are apt to think, "Oh, well, later when my teeth begin to ache and my hair loses its gloss and my skin gets leathery—it will be plenty of time to begin taking care of my looks." It's true that modern beauty science can do some quite miraculous things in counteracting the effects of neglecting your appearance. We can put life back in the hair and skin; put the figure into shape and even do a fair job of adding a sparkle to the eye, but we can't grow you a new tooth. Once a permanent tooth is lost, it's lost forever, so attention to your teeth is one thing you simply can't afford to put off.

The first important thing is to include in your diet each day, at least a pint of milk, a quart if possible, plus fresh fruits and vegetables. This is no vague general principle whose results you will not notice. On the contrary, it has been definitely proved that tooth decay in the usual case, can actually be arrested within ten weeks by using diets high in minerals and vitamins. Such a diet would consist chiefly of fresh milk, fruits and vegetables.

Certainly such treatment is much cheaper and less painful than visits to the dentist. Of course dentists are indispensable in correcting dental trouble, but why not prevent?

Now as to brushing the teeth—probably most of us think that is one beauty treatment to which we give the proper attention, for just about everybody in this enlightened age brushes the teeth at least twice a day. Fine, but of course you should do it at least three times and the question of how you clean them is as important as how often. To do a really thorough job, each time you clean the teeth you should spend from three to five minutes on them. Don't brush horizontally, and be sure to massage your gums as well as your teeth. And did you know that to really clean them properly, in one stage of the process you should not move the bristles of your brush at all, but simply give the brush several "shimmying" movements to loosen any particles between the teeth. Then brush the bristles away from the gums until both inside and outside surfaces of every tooth have been reached. Follow this with a mouth wash, forced in and around the teeth so that all accumulations loosened by the brush will be removed.

Finally top off these two habits—proper diet and thorough brushing—with yearly trips to the dentist for a check up and let's pretty certain you'll acquire a reputation for your beautiful teeth.

Two Chicago automobile flenders escaped from the police in Libertyville Friday evening in a most exciting and unusual manner. They dashed into the village about dusk at the rate of about sixty miles an hour and attracted particular attention when they struck a long stretch of freshly laid gravel. The engines were powerful and the wheels spun in the gravel, kicking up a fountain of dirt that spouted across the street. The car careened from side to side and both occupants crouched low as they again dashed on. There has been much speeding through Libertyville this summer and the village board announced that they are going to make a drastic effort to stop it.

HintsTen Minutes a Day and an Hour a Week
Is Wise ResolutionSummer Leaves Skin and Hair and Figure in Need of Care

A resolution to devote an hour a week and ten minutes a day to personal beautification is more necessary with most women at this time of the year than on New Year's Eve, traditional time for promising to do better by ourselves and others.

Summer has a way of doing uncomplimentary things to the hair and skin and figures of everyone over 18 and under 80. Exposure to sun and wind raise havoc with our hair and skin, leaving the first dry and lifeless and the latter coarsened and an unbecoming yellow in contrast with fall's smart black clothes. Relaxation of vacations and the tempting array of summer fruits, to be eaten with cream, ice creams and cakes and rich picnic or restaurant foods, often have devastating effects on what was a trim figure sometime in May.

Frankly outlining your flaws before a relentless mirror which neither hides nor softens, is a preliminary, which will make for effective use of the time. When only ten minutes is devoted each day to "personal improvement," every second must be made to count.

Starting with the hair, a thorough brushing at night, taking the stroke from the roots to the ends, will do much to restore its lustre. An occasional dry scalp massage, will also give quick results.

Cleansing the Face
Follow the hair treatment with a thorough cleansing of the face, with water or cream, gently patting the cream on the skin. A mild bleach may be used every other night on skins which are not too dry. The bleach should be spread over the face back to the temples, and generously across the back of the neck.

Following the cleansing treatment, if the bleach is not to be used, rinse the face in cool water to which a few drops of witch hazel have been added. If the skin is dry, follow the rinse by patting a cold cream or tissue cream into the face and throat. A really good cream will have a light base, which can be tested by its tendency to melt when held in the palm of the hand.

Cold cream may be rubbed over the elbows which have been bare all summer and have become calloused. An occasional coat of cream over the arms and hands, will soften and lighten them.

Exercises

Five minutes should be left for exercise. Bending, kicking, stretching and rolling exercises will do most for the figure in a short while. If fat has had an inclination to lodge in knobs at the sides of the knees, sitting on the floor, with feet wide apart, and without bending the knees, touching the finger tips of the left hand to the toes of the right foot, at the same time placing the head on the knee, will prove an excellent exercise. Obviously, the exercise should also be reversed. For the ankles, calves and thighs, kicking for height, toe pointed, knees stiff, is a good shaping and reducing exercise. Bicycle kicking on the back, bending with knees straight to touch the floor with the hands, and similar exercises, are simple and effective. Concentration on one type each day is best for such a limited time. Long walks, will also aid in putting the figure in trim.

The figure is a matter which must also be treated outside the ten minutes. Foods rich in fat, sugar or starch should be cut down in the diet but not eliminated. The complexion will often improve as well under this treatment.

In the hour pledged once a week to the hair and skin and figure, more intensive treatment may be given. Taking the hour on an afternoon or evening when there is no feeling of being rushed, make this personal care a business, but at the same time, a pleasurable business.

Oil Shampoo

One week, give three quarters of the hour to the hair. Heat a small quantity of olive oil, then rub in well into the scalp and place a steaming towel over the head. While the oil soaks into the hair, and the pores of the face are opened by the steam, lean back in a chair and with an upward patting, load the skin with cleansing cream, allowing it to remain on while you manicure your nails, massage the hands and wrists or simply rest with closed eyes. When the hot towel has become cold, prepare for the shampoo using cold water, and wash the hair several times. When the oil has been completely washed out and the soap rinsed from

Those Last Minute Meals

When your husband's critical Aunt Maria and her four spinster daughters swoop down suddenly upon you for lunch or dinner, on the day when you had planned to warm over the two chops left from the night before, do you rise to the occasion magnificently and with untroubled calm present a noble repast, or do you, with other mortal women, in frenzied haste tear your cupboard apart and end by sending that helpless male, your husband, to the store, while you apologize?

And if that paragraph seems to slightly exaggerate the significance of that occasion, you have forgotten your experience in a similar vein, or your time is still to come.

True, there are women who can whip together a little of this and a little of that on last moment's notice, and with scarcely a visible effort, produce a banquet. They are the few, the gifted who could be presented at the Court of St. James with runners in both hose, and a shiny nose (the rhyme is unintentional) and neither elow nor feel the slightest confusion. For most of us, that hour, when unexpected company arrives, is a black hour.

Batter Than Old Days

But in this day, when the basement shelves may have a wide array of everything from canned fish to canned fruit, when we have heat with a mere turn of the hand, the matter has become simplified.

If necessary slightly overstock on such things as olives. Remember always just where your jam which turned out best this year sets, and where you can locate that recipe for hot biscuits in a pinch. And in recipes which require little effort little time, and nothing unusual from your cupboard place your faith.

A half hour is not too much to allow yourself for one of these pick-up meals, and much can be accomplished in a half hour. If you must have potatoes, slice them thin and fry them raw. Edgely there are potatoes left over from the meal before which can be mixed with egg and milk and made into patties, or they may be creamed or browned whole on top of the stove. When the left overs are baked potatoes, they can be made appealing by taking the pulp out of the skin and mashing and mixing it with milk and butter, then filling the skins again and placing in the oven. But this takes time, and should not be attempted unless the other dishes require little preparation.

Quick Meat Dishes

Then there's the matter of meat. If you had not planned on having meat for the meal, or have not enough with the increase in those you will feed, make use of what you have. Most homes have bacon and eggs on hand most of the time, and this combination makes a homely but always satisfying dish. Garnish the platter with slices of tomato.

If it's a noon meal, try a bacon and egg tomato salad, made by coarsely chopping fried bacon and hard cooked eggs, mixing with salad dressing and placing on a thick slice of tomato. These slices may be arranged on a platter, in a generous number, as the main dish of the meal.

Lacking bacon and eggs or a taste for them, perhaps there's salmon.

the hair, use cold water for the last rinse to stimulate the scalp. Rub the hair with a towel until partially dry, then allow it to dry itself, never using artificial heat unless absolutely necessary.

An hour is not too much time to spend once a week on the skin. Following the cream cleansing treatment with a good soap and water cleansing, using a soap which has been tested for mildness and water which is warm but not hot, later pat on the nourishing cream which will restore the oils of the skin. On skins which are not too sensitive, the cleansing may be followed by the application of a pack or facial clay, allowing the treatment to remain on for a quarter of an hour or even a half hour. With the removal of the pack, apply cold cream and leave on until it has been partially absorbed by the skin. Then wipe away and rinse in cold water, adding a few drops of witch hazel.

Bleach in these treatments, may be used on the face, neck, arms hands and even back. A mild bleach is always best, and cream should follow the removal of the bleach so as to protect the skin.

Intensive periods of exercise improve the circulation and stimulate a sluggish skin as well as improving the figure. Thorough cleansing and good circulation with the proper diet, will leave a skin transparently lovely. Ten minutes a day is only a sixth of a single hour, but even so little care, can show a six fold increase in personal loveliness.

shrimp, crabmeat or lobster on the reserve shelves. Any one of these is a wise food to stock for a future rainy day. In case any of these are available, make a salad, adding hard cooked eggs, celery, tomato, canned peas or whatever you have for a salad. Any one of these may also be served creamed. Peas may be added to the dish which is served on toast, warmed crackers or hot biscuits.

Vegetables Are No Trouble

The problem of a vegetable is never so hard to solve as the meat dish. Almost every home had canned vegetables on hand, as well as those which may be served raw at this time of year. But in winter, the problem is slightly more difficult, although there are still the canned vegetables. If you have a cabbage, remember that it will make a tempting salad to add to your meal. Canned peas, beans, asparagus, and even carrots may be used in simple salads.

The problem of a dessert is usually the greatest problem in preparing a meal on the "spur of the moment." If there are canned fruits in the basement, add whipped cream, and the whole served in glass dishes with wafers or cookies, will be a triumph. But whipping cream is something which might be in the refrigerator any other time, but never when unexpected company arrives, and the cookies will probably be gone that day. Plain fruit sauce, especially if it is home canned, is

School Preparation
Now, Saves Confusion

The end of the summer, and the opening of school means a busy time in most homes where there are school age children. Clothes, books, and school equipment, have a way of being misplaced during these months when informal attire is in order and books are shoved on the highest shelf out of the way.

The last few weeks before school starts are a good time for "organizing," taking inventory of the school boy's and girl's wardrobes, making a list of the buttons are on, having shoes repaired, and finding that pair of rubbers which wandered into a remote corner of the basement sometime last spring.

Shoes are a need which will be pressing after these summer months when light soled sandals and tennis shoes have been scuffed and worn thin. There will be clothes which were put away the early part of the season without being mended, coats which need cleaning, and a hurried investigation of the stocking situation, will probably find the supply low if not totally depleted.

After looking through the child's wardrobe, shopping and mending lists may be made to save time later. Buttons should be sewed on, coats sent to the cleaner if they need cleaning, and all necessary preparations made.

Hunting Supplies

Hunting up the school books is a task which may be left to the child

not to be spurned. A hard sauce, lemon or caramel brown sugar sauce, may be made to pour over a cake baked earlier in the week and beginning to taste dry. And if worst comes to worst, Aunt Maria's nephew, who is your husband, may be sent to the nearest place for a quart of ice cream and a box of vanilla wafers.

dren, unless the books have been placed beyond their reach. Pencils, paints, tablets, notebooks, rulers, and other school supplies should be included in the hunt.

When the time comes for shopping, choose a cool day when the stores won't be crowded and start out early in the morning. A full list of all the needed articles will make the task less of a haphazard expedition.

School supplies which are not left from the year before, are better purchased after the first day of school when the teacher has given instructions as to the type of material which will be used.

If preparations for school are made in advance, that first day need not be a day of chaos in your home when nothing is in place and an excited search for shoes and caps and coats and socks, leaves mother a frayed victim of the opening of school.

This woman has never had to go back to her shop to get some more tools and she finishes a job so quickly that the plumbers' union have finally declared a boycott against her. They say that she has dragged in the dust all the finest traditions of an ancient and honorable profession.

They know from experience. They know that gas heat eliminates soot, dirt and grime from walls and curtains, from window sills, from corners, from furniture and furnishings, from under and over radiators and registers—from everywhere in the house from cellar to attic.

This is only one of the many, many reasons why you want gas heat. It saves days and nights of back-breaking coal shoveling... dirty hours of hauling ashes... the anxiety of watching and waiting for heat to come up and dozens of other home-heating troubles.

Every home can afford it

You may say to all this—yes—that's all right for wealthy folks who can afford gas heat. That's where you're wrong. Because now, through greatly lowered cost even the most modest home can afford gas heat.

To prove it—and we take the full burden of proof—we'll install it in your home without your making one cent of investment. Then you'll know from your own personal experience whether you can afford gas heat.

During the nine heating months of the first year you pay $3.00 a month rental for the equipment in the average home. This charge will be included with your gas bill. And if for any reason during the first year you want it removed, we take it out and the rental charge stops immediately. Further, we replace your former heating equipment in the same or better condition than we found it. If you decide you want it, the rental applies on the purchase price.

Century of Progress Lacks the Grandeur of City of Dreams, But Awakens Enthusiasm

After Four Decades, Mrs. Williams Recalls the Early Fair

Chicago's 1933 Century of Progress Exposition lacks the dignity, the grandeur and the restfulness of the "City of Dreams," World's Fair of 1893, according to Mrs. D. A. Williams, recently returned from several days of sightseeing in Chicago, who can graphically describe that earlier exposition after the elapse of four decades. But despite the lack, the modern exposition did not fail to fully awaken her enthusiasm.

The old "City of Dreams" was more spread out, more quiet and more artistic than the tremendous 1933 show, Mrs. Williams says in comparing the two fairs. The 1893 show, she describes as a city entirely in white, "with a magnificent tranquility which carried the visitors into another realm." In architectural dignity, she found the modern exposition could not compare with its predecessor.

Awakened Enthusiasm

With its brilliant colors, its noisy bedlam of barkers and loud speakers, and its crowds, the Century of Progress lacked for Mrs. Williams the quiet charm she found in the Dream City, but she did not fail to find inspiration to kindle her enthusiasm in the several days she spent sightseeing in Chicago recently.

Balbo and his fleet, captured her imagination as much as any feature of her visit. She saw a seaplane, not Balbo's armada, Mrs. Williams explained, but one like it. "I wouldn't be afraid to go up with Balbo," she said. "The seaplanes looked perfectly safe."

She paused to remember the time when her father had laughed and said with conviction, "They may do anything else, but they never will fly."

Among the exhibits she remembers with greatest pleasure are the Belgian, Japanese and several other foreign exhibits, the Floricentaur building, the Marionettes, the Maya Temple, the Hall of the Religion, and the Chinese Temple.

Ten in the Japanese tearoom reminded her of the Japanese Tea Garden in the City of Dreams, which was so lovely, so restful and quiet, and such a favorite spot of visitors "that many felt personal sorrow when it was destroyed."

Has Seen Progress

The Transport Building had little appeal for Mrs. Williams who has watched much of the progress in transportation methods take place during her lifetime. At the old fair she remembers, the crowds made way for the "horseless carriage," which was considered a marvel. She remembers the day years ago when Mr. Williams rushed home and told her to come downtown to see a "horseless carriage."

Questioned, Mrs. Williams admitted that the present fair in comparison with her recollection of '93 is slightly more commercialized. But, she explained, during this depression few persons feel able to contribute large sums for the promotion of such an enterprise. "They say there was a panic in '93," she adds, "but I don't remember it. People seemed to have more money in those days."

Brings World Together

Its mission in bringing the "world together" is the greatest significance of the fair, Mrs. Williams believes. She recalled hearing a Mormon chorus one evening during her recent visit, and remembers the narrow conception of Mormons she had as a child. The foreign exhibits and the attraction of foreigners to the fair, creates a better understanding among the races, in her belief. There are perhaps, proportionately fewer foreigners at this fair.

White haired, an observer of the wonders of many years, she glows with enthusiasm when she describes the lighting of the fair, viewed from a court in the Hall of Science, and she plans to go back, for she hasn't seen "half enough." Suddenly insisting on the futility of attempting a word description of the Exposition's wonders, she says, "Go see it yourself. I can't begin to tell the story."

Leese deceased will attend the Probate Court of Lake County, at a term thereof to be held at the Court House in Waukegan, in said County, on the first Monday of October next, 1933, when and where all persons having claims against said estate are notified and requested to present the same to said Court for adjudication.

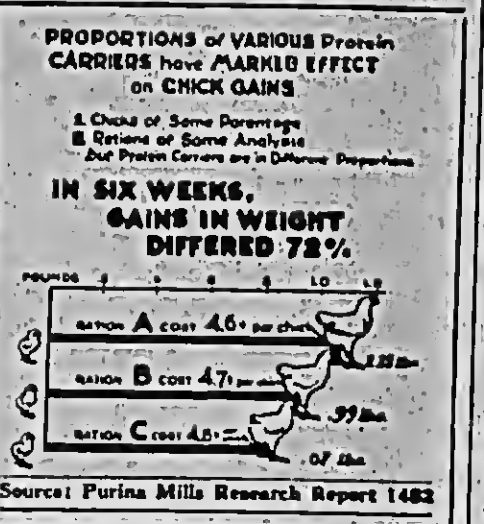

WILLIAM DOUGLAS LEECE, Administrator as Aforesaid. Waukegan, Ill., August 3, 1933. Runyard and Behanna, Attorneys. (2)

Mr. and Mrs. William Keulman entertained Mrs. Keulman's brother, Charles Selby, of Bristol, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tiffany of Waukegan Sunday.

CHICK GAINS DEPEND ON PROTEIN SOURCES

The first six weeks are important in the life of the chick. It is during this period that it gets its real start in life. Poultrymen used to be satisfied with a development of around two-thirds of a pound during the first forty to forty-five days after hatching.

Science, however, has been gradually edging up the standard for the greater profit of poultry owners. Now, by the proper blending of protein sources, by the proportioning of nutrients from various field crops and concentrates, chicks can be made to average more than a pound in six weeks' time and can be raised to that weight at a cost less than was formerly paid for lighter-weight birds. "It is all in the rate of gain that a chick can draw out of its feed," says the feeding experts of the research staff of Purina Mills. Careful tests, conducted on many thousands of chicks on their own practical poultry farm, make it possible for these experts to assure poultrymen that similar results can be theirs under proper conditions of feeding and management. A typical growth chart from their files shows chicks of the same parentage and fed rations of the same chemical analysis varying widely in weight at the end of the first six weeks feeding period. With all conditions the same, except the proportioning of proteins within the feeds themselves, the best feed showed as much as 75 per cent weight advantage over the ordinary ration constructed on the old principles of mixing according to chemical analysis.

The proper rate of gain today is no longer two-thirds of a pound at six weeks of age, but one and one-tenth pounds or better. Poultry owners who can show such development in their chicks can face the important year of 1933 with more confidence that theirs will be a profitable season. "The differences are due to the fact that such protein unit, considered as a building stone, is present in the right amount so that the chick's body can construct new tissues more effectively than it furnished too much of some materials and not enough of others. Besides the difference in gains, the chicks fed A and B rations in these experiments showed much better feathering and general development than those receiving ration C. The ingredients of this poorest ration were, incidentally, the highest priced in the commercial market, yet results were totally out of line. It isn't price and it isn't analysis that makes a good feed."
